ADDRESS.

To the Engross of New York who Suprement Brecking RIDGE and Lars:—

The Executive Committee of the Breckinridge and Lane organization in this county doesn it their duty to andress you, and the people of the United States, in reference to the result of the late election its probable consequences, the condition of our country at this important orisis, and the course which the national democracy should hereafter pursus. This duty seems the more important when we consider that already gloomy apprehensions exist that the American Union of States is in imminest danger of being suddenly and forever destroyed.

Some of our brethren at the South express the opinion that the Southern States shoult at once second from the confideracy. The immediate cause awigned to justify such an act is the election of Abraham Lincoln as freeldent of the United States. A sectional geographical party has, for the first time in the harby of our country, succeeded in choosing a President. The fatal error against which Washington and all the wiscest stalesmen of the land have warred us has been committed. The mat choose to rule the nation has frequently account probaples of hostility to the institutions of the Southern States—principles as frequently asserted by the party of which he was the candinate in this is forcessed wood the probable triumph of aboutionism, and direct assaults upon starery, enforced with all the power of the general administration. Those who entertain these forebodings be lieve that the property, the rights, and even the lives of the South are thus exposed to the utimost peril, and that the only means of guarding against that peril is for the South to organize itself as an independent government, and rely upon its own power and resources for its own protection.

South to organize itself as an independent government, and rely upon its own power and resources for its own protection.

If we perceived all these dargers as results certain to attend the mere choice of Mr Lincola, we would feel it our duty to concur with the most apprehensive and determined of our Southers breakers in all the preparations for angety which they propose, although even then we would strive, and we hope the South will strive, to preserve our Union by any sacrition other than of honor or security. It is not to be denied that wholly trrespective of Mr Lincola's election events have transpired well calculated to excite the indignation, if not the alarm of the South. The speeches of Soward, Chare and Sumer have transpired well calculated to excite the indignation, if not the alarm of the South. The speeches of Soward, Chare and Sumer have tended, if they were not designed, to wound the sensibilities and the welfare of the South. Many of the Northern Blates have virtually mutified the Fugitive Slave law, and the speciale requirements of the constitution giving the owner of a slave the right to regain him when he flees from servitude. The free soil rentiment of the North is opposed to the stanission of new a ave states, and equally so to the admission of slaves into the common territory. The bond of union has thus been broken by the North, and it is not strange that the South, thus unjustly treated, and so persistently assetted, thould recommon the exercise of that reserved right to see side which artises when the seconding State has been or is to be despoted of its just, equal and constitutional rights is the Union. It has been well remarked, and we fully concur in the opinion, that "a contract broken on one aide is broken on all." If, there fore, the Southern States, or any of them, in view of what has the confideracy." while we would most despit lament such a result, we would not regard them as objects of hatred or violence, but as brokeners compelied to leave a family in the preclinate or which the confiding in their honor, patriotism and chivalry. We are ready and eager to constend for and maintain all their rights in any contingues; but to give the struggle even one ray of bops must have their earnest and persistent cooperation. Will they remain with us or leave us? We "pause for a reply," but we do not fear it. We think we can behold in lieb brighter days of our country mon. to come, the splended speciacle of a united and irresistible party, which, trampling do wn the bloot sod the fessatio, whose faise and odious herestes about the major race have too long disturbed our repose, will place the constitution, with all its sanctions and guarantees, its such position and keeping as that every American citisen, in all parts of our country, shall, under its wise execution, have protection for all his property and an equal enjoyment with his fellow of all the territory as of all the welfare which our nation may acquire.

In the name of our past history, in the name of humanity, regulated by liberty, civilization and progress, in the interests of commerce and property, by all the ties of fraternity and good will that ought to exist between the South and the national democracy of the North, by all that is good in past, present or future, we ask you to trust the fast of this battle to us. Ours is a common cause. The stack is made here. Trust the defence to us. We will resist the memory successfully. We have slood by you; stand by us; and, not withstanding the imminent peril now threstening the com son country, we will thus survive the shock, and preserve, unimpaired, this glorious Ession to trust the memory successfully. We have slood by our stand by us; and, not withstanding the imminent peril now threstening the com son country, we will thus survive the shock, and preserve, unimpaired, this glorious Ession to the survive the shock, and preserve, unimpaired, this glorious Ession, the survive the shock of the productive of the path survive the shock, and preserve, unimpaired, this glorious that the total survive

ESOLUTIONS BEGARDING THE RESULT OF THE LATE ELECTION.
The Republican General Committee met last evening, at The Allaged Wire Possessing Once at the gen, R. J.

The investigation in this case, which commenced some days since before Coroner Gafaey, appears to increase in interest as it advances. Mr. Aboom, the husband, was first suspected, on account of having at various times made threats against the life of his wife in presence of made threats against the life of his wife in presence of her brother, James Bennett. The first day was taken up by the testimosy of the doctor, Bennett and Mrs. Bennett. The Bennett testified to having heard threats on various occasions used by the accused against the life of his wife. The second was consumed by the testimony of several witnesses calculated to show the feeling existing between the deceased and accused. Yesterday Julia Kennedy, who was suspected of living on too intimate terms with Absom while in his employ as servant, was examined. Her testimony, which follows, will be found interesting:—

Convenients on the Bank of the Interior, and the o'clock has evening a man entered the store No. 70 Crosby street, kept by Robert Thomas, and after making several purchases ediented a new counterfeit bill on the Bank of the Interior, Albary, N. Y. Mr. Thomas believing it to be bad called to officer bully, of the Fourteenth ward police, and had him arrested and conveyed to the station house, where he was committed to answer. About the same time a young woman officed a like bill at the store No. 276 Grand street. The store keeper cid not discover that it was a counterfeit until after she had left. He, however, made known the fact to efficer sherrer, of the Fourteenth ward police, and gave a description of the woman. The officer, on going to wards the flowery, observed two women standing on the conner in conversation, one answering very moch the ceteription given him. He immediately went up to her and charged her with passing the money, when the three from her a pockuthook containing two of the bills, and then ran up the flowery. The officer, he wever, soon overtook her and conveyed her to the station house, where she gave her mane as Mary Brady. She was also held to answer. The Fighth ward police also arrested a man for strempting to pass one of the bills in that ward. They are very poorly excuted, and printed on minerable paper. They can be very readily detected.
